

The New Delineator

for October Out To-day

More than ever the Fashion Magazine of the world, The Delineator's October number marks the beginning of a decided change—or series of changes—in its Fashion News, in its illustrations, in its "make-up" and in its printing. It contains more pages devoted to Fashions and Dress Topics than any two other magazines.

Its Special Reports of New York and Paris Fashion News are the exclusive contributions of Helen Berkeley-Loyd and M. Edouard La Fontaine, the two recognized world-authorities on Styles.

Its fashion plates, beginning with this number, show no less than five distinctly different forms of illustration—the work of artists who have no equal anywhere in their respective methods of delineation.

One of the most noteworthy of innovations is the printing of sixteen of the fashion plates in two colors—in addition to the regular full-color plates.

Next month this color feature will be even more in evidence.

The Delineator has always given the most in quality and in quantity for its subscription price—it is now giving more—much more—than ever.

For example, 20 pages of Juvenile Fashions in this number with illustrations by Carl Kleinschmidt, Anna Burnham Westermann and others.

Besides the Fashions—and the Household Departments which have made The Delineator famous—some features among the many deserve special mention:

"Safe Foods and How to Get Them" is the series title under which The Delineator begins its campaign in the interest of Pure Food. This question is more widely agitated at present than ever before, and much that is sensational and untrue has been printed about adulterations in prepared foods, etc. The Delineator for more than a year has been conducting a far-reaching investigation of its own, at a very considerable expense, with the aid of the foremost authorities—and the result is this series of articles which every housewife and every parent will read and value for its practical help in the home. The present chapter treats of Milk—how to detect and guard against impurities, etc.

To every one who cares for a child's mental training, the article on "Education for Life Through Living" by Dr. William H. Maxwell, LL.D., Superintendent of Schools, New York City, will be worth many times the price of the magazine. It is profusely illustrated from life. Supt. Maxwell's great victory for modern methods in child-education is so recent and so widely known that anything on this subject from his pen is noteworthy. He has been so widely quoted and so generally misquoted, that these special articles, written for The Delineator, the first he has ever written on the subject for publication over his own signature, will attract the interest of every educator in the land—whether she be the mother in the home or the teacher in the school.

There are a dozen other reasons why you should buy the October Delineator—its own pages tell them best.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

Well did I love thee to the last,
As fervently as thou,
Who didst not change through all the past,
And canst not alter now;
The love where Death has set his seal,
Nor age can chill, nor rival steal,
Nor falsehood disavow;
And, what were worst, thou canst not see
Or wrong, or change, or fault in me.

The better days of life were ours,
The worst can but be mine;
The sun that cheers, the storm that lowers
Shall nevertmore be thine;
The silence of that dreamless sleep
I envy now too much to weep;
Nor need I to repine
That all those charms have passed away,
I might have watched through long decay.

I know not if I could have borne
To see thy beauties fade;
The night that followed such a morn
Had worn a deeper shade;
Thy day without a cloud hath passed,
And thou wert lovely to the last,
Extinguished, not decayed;
As stars that shoot along the sky
Shine brightest as they fall from high.

Yet how much less it were to grieve,
Though thou hast that still remain,
Than thou remember thee!
The all of thine that cannot die,
Through dark and drear Eternity,
Returns again to me;
Thou against thy buried love endears
Than ought except its living years.
—Byron.

Miss Noble Entertaining.
Miss Nan Noble entertained a few of her friends Friday evening, September 9th, at her home, "Merry Hurst," near Union Theological Seminary.

The entertainment was in the nature of a farewell, as Miss Noble leaves soon for Norfolk, Va., preparations for the brilliant wedding of her daughter, Miss Adeline Chastel Burruss, to Lieutenant Harry G. Jordan, U. S. A., were changed, and Miss Burruss was married at the bedside of her father at 5 o'clock Saturday afternoon, with only the immediate members of the family present. Lieutenant and Mrs. Jordan will make their future home at Springfield, Mass., where the bridegroom is stationed.

At Mountain View.
"Mountain View," a historic Clarke county home, built by so distinguished a churchman as Bishop Meade, was thrown open last week by Mrs. E. H. Meade and Misses Louise and Rosalie Meade, for the delightful entertainment of a number of young people who appreciated to the utmost the royal Virginia hospitality with which they were received. Those present from a distance included Miss Carrie Beckham, of Culpeper; Miss Cooper, of Newport News; Miss Sallie Rixey, daughter of Congressman Rixey; Messrs. Arthur Anderson, William Reardon and Vernon B. Garton, of Winchester, Va.

Wedding of Interest.
The Sunday Baltimore Sun says: An approaching wedding of interest to Baltimore society, the announcement of which will probably create surprise, is that of Miss Effie Elliott Johnston to Mr. Thomas W. Jenkins, which will take place September 27th, at St. Ann's Catholic Church, York road.

Miss Johnston, who is well known in Baltimore society, is a daughter of the late Colonel Richard Malcolm Johnston. Mr. Jenkins is the son of the late Henry W. Jenkins and is the head of the furniture firm of that name.

Miss Johnston's father, who died several years ago, was the author of "Dukeborough Tales," a book which elicited much favorable comment when first published, and other stories equally well known. He was a Confederate veteran, having served on General Brown's staff throughout the war. Miss Johnston's mother was Miss Frances Mansfield, of Connecticut.

She is a daughter of the Confederacy and a Colonial Dame, and is deeply interested in educational work. Miss Ruth Johnston, of the Maryland Institute, is a sister. The Misses Johnston make their home at 302 East Lafayette Avenue.

Mr. Jenkins is a widower. He is a personal friend of Cardinal Gibbons, a member of the Catholic and Maryland country Clubs and a director in the Calvert Bank of this city.

Mr. and Mrs. William A. Cronshaw have given up housekeeping and are at No. 333 West Grace Street for the winter. Mrs. Cronshaw has recently returned from a visit to her former home in Missouri.

Mrs. Otway Warwick and family have returned from spending the summer at Massanetta Springs.

An interesting bit of foreign gossip comes across the water which is of peculiar interest to American society. It is that the lovely Countess of Suffolk, formerly Daisy Leiter, has decided to be known hereafter as the Countess Marguerite. She has had her boudoir done over, putting a small fortune into its furnishings, and has had everything in it bedecked with designs of this modest bloom. The same staid figures are on all her stationery and personal belongings, and the countess makes a practice of wearing on all possible occasions a bunch of marigolds on her bodice. Just at present her ladyship of Suffolk is putting in much of her time visiting the Hon. Mrs. Asquith, who was the original of "Dodo."

En route from New York to Richmond, Saturday last, the Rev. Dr. J. William Jones and Mrs. Jones spent several hours with their son, the Rev. E. Pendleton Jones, of Hampton.

Mr. James A. Moncre, who joined his family at Cold Sulphur Springs, on his return from abroad, is in Richmond. Mrs. Moncre and the children will remain a while longer in the Virginia mountains.

Mrs. T. T. Funtleroy and daughter, Miss Rowena, who have been spending July and August in Staunton, Va., will occupy their cottage at Willoughby Beach for September.

Free Bridge Meeting.
The joint committee from the Councils of Richmond and Manchester will meet in the City Hall at 8 o'clock on Wednesday night to hear the reports from the engineers and attorneys of the two cities on the subject. The meeting will likely result in some tangible action looking to the building of an up-to-date free bridge.

Board of Aldermen.
The Board of Aldermen will meet in regular session to-morrow night at 8 o'clock. Most of the business will be of a routine nature, but the resolution to pay Architect C. K. Bryant for his High School plans will come up, and is likely to provoke a fight.

There will be a number of committee meetings during the week.

EDUCATE NEGRO BLIND AND DEAF

Expected That Legislature Will Establish Long-Needed School.

LOCATED IN CHESTERFIELD

Site Has Already Been Offered State Free of Charge.

Interest in the establishment by Virginia of an institution of learning for the negro deaf and blind children of the state is again being awakened and brought to the front.

At the last special session of the Legislature, Hon. S. Gordon Cumming, of Hampton, introduced in the House a bill establishing such an institution. This bill was endorsed officially by the board of visitors of the Virginia School for the Deaf and Blind in Staunton. The Schools and Colleges Committee, to whom it was referred, after a hearing, was inclined to report the bill favorably, but in the regular session, which followed immediately, but with many new members, this almost the entire membership of the new Legislature had to be impressed with the need of a new State institution.

The original bill for the colored school was all this time in the custody of a prominent member of the new Legislature, who was awaiting a favorable opportunity to introduce it. The days of the regular session slipped rapidly by, however, and when the opportune time did come, in the opinion of the members, the limit of the law-makers was very near, and consideration of the bill could not be secured.

Bill Passed House
In order to get the work for the new school started in a tangible way before the Legislature adjourned, a brief bill was drawn up, introduced, and heard by the Schools and Colleges Committee and reported favorably at once, and in a few days passed by the House.

The bill went over to the Senate, but in the scramble of the expiring hours was completely overlooked, and so never passed that body.

Proposed Site.
It is understood that a gentleman whose business is in Richmond, but who resides some little distance out in Chesterfield county, is ready to place at the disposal of the State fifty acres of excellent land, and two of his neighbors are inclined to add twenty-five acres each, making the total tract one hundred acres—which they will deed to the State without charge for the site of the proposed school.

The movement originated with the State organization of the white deaf alumni of the Staunton school, at one of the conventions of the Virginia Association of the Deaf, held in Richmond some years ago.

The matter has been in the hands of a committee of the association, who have been diligently at work printing and distributing small leaflets of information on the subject to the past two or three Legislatures.

Secured Governor's Interest.
Governor Montague was one of the prominent men whose interest was secured and who recommended the matter to the Legislature in his last message.

This committee of white mutes has in its possession the names and addresses of over 200 colored deaf and blind children in the State, with names of parents or guardians. Not only have prominent men been interested in the matter, but most of the newspapers of the State have also been approached and their interest and co-operation secured—many editorials having appeared at the time the Legislature was in session, calling its attention to the need of this new State institution.

The matter will be before the Legislature again this coming winter, when success will no doubt crown the efforts of the white deaf and blind citizens of the State who have themselves received the blessed gift of an education of both mind and hand.

The site of the new institution is understood to be between Richmond and Petersburg, and for that reason alone of great advantage to the State in the matter of the transportation of the pupils, the expense of which it will likely have to bear in the majority of cases. In this connection it may be said that the State that are educating their deaf and blind negroes, with the possible exception of one, the schools are under the management of white people solely. It having been demonstrated to be not only to the advantage of the State, but only to its afflicted wards as well.

VISIT NATURAL BRIDGE.

Large Party of Richmonders Enjoy Excursion to Mountains.
One of the most select and successful excursions which ever left Richmond was that to the Natural Bridge, Va., given on September 4th (Labor Day), by the ladies of the church of the Covenant, under the efficient management of Mrs. Thomas E. Swain and Mrs. Robert Schaefer.

Regardless of the threatening weather hereabout, seventy-five persons went on the excursion and found the most delightful weather prevailing in the mountains. A neat sun was petted for the building fund of the church.

The following is a list of the excursionists: Mr. and Mrs. Thomas E. Swain, Mrs. Duval, Miss Annie Duval, Master Hilray Duval, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Schaefer, Otto Schaefer, Miss Virginia Schaefer, Miss Gardner, J. M. Wilson, C. D. Taylor, Miss Mayo, Miss Cullen, Miss Conley, Mr. and Mrs. H. Hooker, Frank Bellwood, Miss Nellie Bellwood, Miss Helen Pollard, Miss Bertha Washier, Miss L. Watt, Miss B. Watt, Miss Richardson, Miss Johnston, H. W. Netherland, Mrs. McIntyre, Miss McIntyre, Miss Pincus, Miss A. S. Hurt, Miss E. A. Hurt, Mrs. N. N. Duval, Miss Angel, Mrs. Battle, Mrs. N. N. Duval, Miss Link, Miss Rickett, Mr. N. R. Watt, Miss Thomas, Miss C. C. Neberie, Mrs. Smith, Miss

Oliver Lee Hall, Miss Ruby M. Price, Mrs. C. B. Price, Miss Patch, Miss E. K. Mayo, Mrs. M. D. Eastwood, Miss Mari Curtis, Miss Allen, Miss Mary Camp, Miss Helen Camp, Miss Louis Camp, Mrs. Shinnberger, Miss Shinnberger, Rev. Mr. Rankin, Miss C. Abbott, Miss Talley, Miss Heinrich, Master Heinrich, Mrs. Robert Lecky, Jr., Master Lecky, Miss Almon, Nellie R. Brenner, A. E. Nicholson, Miss Allen, Miss Alice Billups, Miss Peachy Wilson, Mrs. L. "BUSTER BROWN."
Musical Comedy at the Academy To-morrow and Tuesday.

The song says: "We all love Jack," and it might be sung with equal truth, "We all love Buster," that quaint little imp of mischief, that Richard F. Outcault has created for the New York Herald. "Buster Brown" is so real, every one feels he actually knows him. There will be a chance to know him better at the Academy to-night and to-morrow, matinee and night, when a dramatization of his exploits will be made by the enterprising manager, Melville B. Raymond, who has secured the sole right in a dramatic way to Buster and his belongings, including his dog Tige, who is represented by one of the best animal impersonators extant. The entire production is a spectacular one, even the smallest detail is looked after and to use a "circus" term: "The big show is coming."

The Bijou Bill.
When an opportunity presents itself for scenic display in a road attraction nowadays, it is generously taken advantage of by the management, and the forthcoming production of "Uncle Dan!" (or "A Messenger from Jarvis Section") which will be seen at the Bijou all this week, is no exception to the rule. The scenes showing the old homestead, Kepler's den in Boston, Mrs. Augustine's lodging house, the Boston & Maine Railroad station at Boston, and others are presented with an attention to detail which is the secret of all successful productions; the public eye will be well balanced one and contains many well known artists, principal among them being Mr. Fred Wyckoff in the title role.

The Minstrels Coming.
A screamingly funny burlesque on the Grildiron Club, that well known Washington organization, will constitute the first part of the entertainment by the Al. G. Field Greater Minstrels this season. That club's annual dinners, attended by the most prominent statesmen and diplomats, is an event of considerable importance and weighty affairs of state and national significance are discussed. All men in the public eye will be readily recognized and will be on hand with their pet hobbies personified by the seven talented orators who have been engaged to impersonate the notables who will attend the Grildiron Club's banquet.

Batkins Case Again.
The case of Dr. Linwood D. Watkins, Jr., one of the physicians to the city poor, charged by Mr. H. L. Mathews with incompetency etc., in his practice, will be finally disposed of by the Health Committee Wednesday night. With the exception of the examination of two or three witnesses, Mr. Mathews has closed his case for Mr. Watkins.

Mr. James W. Gordon is counsel for Dr. Watkins and will introduce a number of witnesses in behalf of his client.
